The Sub-Fund is a financial product that promotes ESG characteristics pursuant to Article 8 of the Disclosure Regulation. The Sub-Fund invests mainly in investment-grade debt instruments (bonds and money market instruments) of issuers around the world, including emerging markets. Investments may include mortgage-backed securities (MBS) and asset-backed securities (ABS). The mortgages underlying the MBSs may be commercial or residential, and the MBSs may or may not have any form of government credit backing. The Sub-Fund's exposure to MBSs, ABSs and European CLOs is limited to 40% of net assets. This includes indirect exposure gained through to-be-announced securities (TBA), which is limited to 20% of net assets and European CLOs, which is limited to 10% of net assets. The Sub-Fund invests at least 70% of assets in investment-grade securities. Management commentary*Market recap

Geopolitical risk remains the dominant driver across global fixed income markets. The month opened with continued uncertainty around the Strait of Hormuz, though a fragile ceasefire framework established in late April held broadly intact, tempering the most acute fears of supply disruption. Oil prices oscillated in a wide range, ultimately ending the month lower as diplomatic progress offset lingering supply risk. Nevertheless, residual uncertainty was enough to keep inflation expectations elevated and bond markets volatile.

The inflation picture remained worrying. The pass-through from April's energy spike continued to feed into core measures, particularly in Europe and Asia. The US April CPI print came in at +3.8% yoy, still well above the Fed's comfort zone, while Euro Area CPI stands at 3% yoy. Diffusion effects should continue to push up headline and core measures in the coming months, putting further pressure on Central Banks. On the growth side, US economy kept on surprising to the upside, while the UK data remained inline and Euro Area outlook kept on disappointing.

In this context, the Fed held rates steady and maintained a cautious tone, with Chair Powell reiterating that the bar for cuts remained high. Several FOMC members struck a notably hawkish tone through the month, pushing the market to switch from rate cut to rate hikes expectations. The ECB kept its key interest rates unchanged, but Christine Lagarde suggested that a rate hike was highly likely at the June meeting unless there was a positive development regarding energy prices. BOE used a more neutral tone, suggesting that the removal of rate cut expectations could have already generated a sufficient tightening.

Sovereign bond yields hit multi-year highs mid-month, driven by a strong US core CPI print on May 12 and renewed oil price fears, before rallying sharply into month-end as the late-month ceasefire optimism triggered a sharp reversal. All in all, US and long dated Japanese yields are marginally higher on the month while other developed markets, particularly Europe and Antipodeans are lower.

Corporate bond markets performed strongly again with Bloomberg Global Corporate Bond Index OAS down to 77bps at the end of May amid slower supply and strong demand. Corporates continue to push debt transactions through the primary market. In the US, supply was driven by hyperscalers, AI capex, and M&A. Everything was easily absorbed. In Europe, supply was dominated by refinancing with a notable drop in financial issuance.

In currencies, the USD strengthened in May, with the trade-weighted DXY rising 0.9%, supported by the pivot in Fed's communication. JPY and CAD were the weakest major G10 currencies, falling 1.71% and 1.55% vs USD. GBP underperformed as well slipping 1.09% against USD while EUR also softened, down 0.61%. In EM FX, ZAR, HUF and CLP were standouts, gaining 3.02%, 2.50% and 1.06% vs USD respectively, while IDR, KRW and BRL underperformed -2.9%, -1.80% and -1.60% respectively vs USD.

Performance

AF-Global Aggregate Fund outperformed its benchmark in May with both posting positive total returns over the month. Interest rates, led returns driven by country allocation where our overweights in Europe and an underweights in the US and Japan all worked. Positions in local EM debt performed on longs in Hungary, Mexico and Brazil. Bond selection was also positive whereas yield curve and US inflation breakevens detracted. Positions in credit and emerging markets were marginally positive all in all. Currencies were weaker on intra block positions and emerging market FX. A long in the USD worked.

Positioning changes

We marginally added to our overall overweight duration during May. At a country level, we decreased our overweight in the Eurozone and the United Kingdom, and decreased our underweight in the United States. In currencies, we reduced a short in EUR and a trimmed a long in JPY. In credit, our overall allocation decreased somewhat mostly via Financials.

Outlook

Conflicting news on the status of negotiations between the US and Iran keep markets on edge with energy prices and bond yields volatile. Global recession risk remains limited for now and the broader picture is therefore one of slower and more uneven growth. We keep our strategic positions constructive on the medium-to long-term outlook and expect opportunities to emerge.

Overall the fund has a moderate long in duration, but with sizeable country bets as we disagree with market pricings on many countries and curves. Specifically, we are long Europe, the UK, Australia and New Zealand where we see more central bank cuts over the medium term and attractive valuations. Conversely, we are underweight US, Canada and Japan where we expect higher growth and potentially sticky inflation. We are also long selected emerging markets where we see high real yields and a potential for country rerating. However, we keep the overall allocation to risk assets modest with plenty of room to add should hostilities escalate and markets begin to price in recessionary risks.

In currencies, similar to interest rates, we seek to exploit plentiful relative value opportunities. We are long USD, NOK and JPY as well as emerging markets via commodity exporters like MXN, BRL and CLP. Conversely, we are short EUR Bloc via CHF and GBP and short CNH.

At the end of the period the fund has a yield of 6.1% versus 4.6% of the benchmark; a duration of 6.6 years versus 6.1 years of the benchmark and an average credit rating A- versus AA- of the benchmark.
